Expand MediCal's Assisted Living Waiver to rural areas. Assisted living provides supportive services and housing to individuals in non-institutional settings. Most assisted living services can be covered only through private pay, with certain exceptions including a small program that offers MediCal coverage for assisted living, referred to as the Assisted Living Waiver. (ALW) The ALW gives MediCal eligible individuals at risk of institutionalization the option to reside in an assisted living setting or public subsidized housing as an alternative to institutionalization. However, the ALW only operates in limited areas of the state, has never been expanded and is not available to individuals in rural areas. 232	3/20/2020	California should enact legislation to: a. Create a Transportation Future Commission, with the directive of developing legislative recommendations to ensure emerging transportation technologies will benefit Californians of all ages and abilities, and be accessible regardless of existing income or place disparities b. Give cities and local transportation agencies the ability to lower speed limits on roads within their jurisdiction, and direct the California Department of Transportation to eliminate the 85th percentile rule in speed-limit setting c. Increase funding in the California Active Transportation Program (ATP) and provide legislative direction and support to more efficiently and equitably administer the program d. Create an interagency State Coordinating Council on Access and Mobility (CCAM) with an express "consumer-first" focus, supporting the states and localities in better coordinating human services transportation and delivery systems e. Commission a California Vehicle Economy study via a collaboration of research universities and state agencies, with the goal of providing a clearer financial assessment of the direct and indirect costs that California taxpayers pay per year to support car-centric transportation infrastructure		AARP California	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
233	3/19/2020	Transforming the current inventory of outdated and under resourced senior centers into dynamic community hubs that will serve all. We propose to harness the latent power of the senior center that moves from the traditional recreational model into a multi-faceted entity grounded in a holistic approach to wellness. 236	4/3/2020	Volunteers who are coming forward to make their communities age-friendly need support to get started. For example there is no budget. To bring it to the Mayor and City Council needs lots of spade [sic]. This is the time volunteers need help. Each city should have an independent living, skilled nursing geared toward middle class citizens.	Bella Comelo	Senior Commission, City of San Leandro	1	0	0	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
237	4/3/2020	Develop a model for identifying areas with high numbers of seniors and disabled populations in conjunction with low levels of available transit in order to guide implementation of MTC coordination plans. Identifying mismatches in transportation need and supply is a vital step in addressing transportation equity.	David Ragland	SafeTREC, UC Berkeley	1	1	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
238	4/3/2020	Create a protocol based on existing data to identify gaps in EMS service (e.g. response time) at the county level and to explore specific strategies to address these factors. 241	5/1/2020	Develop a model for municipalities to use to identify barriers to access and use of parks and green spaces by seniors and those with disabilities. This particularly relevant for informing park and urban greenway programs in areas with larger senior and disabled populations. The underlying rationale is that the benefits of these programs should extend to all who pay for them through their taxes, and especially to those who could obtain particular benefits from them with added attention to circumstances around their use.
